How to keep your kids safe online – stage by stage.

Up to 10 years old

Accompany them during their first experiences on the web.

Make sure you are there when your little ones take the first steps. The first contact a child has with the internet is a good opportunity to sit down and guide him or her in their new adventure.

Set the conditions for the use of the internet.

Set basic rules for using the internet. A good practice is to supervise the number of hours spent online and also to set times in which the use of web is allowed. Be a good example.

Children usually take their parents' behaviour as an example, this rule applying equally online as well as in real life. If the members of the family have a positive behaviour, this will immediately pass on to the child.

Use parental control tools

Take advantage of the existing technology and use it in your favour.

Parental Control tools make it possible to block sites or even categories of pages that contain potentially offensive material, allow you to set time limits for internet surfing or game play.

At the same time it allows your child to ask you for permission to visit certain pages or have more play time, if their homework is done.

Teach them not to share information that might identify them

It is important to make it very clear to children that in the virtual world, not every person is a friend, and that some people may even want to hurt them.

Explain why it isn't safe to share information such as: address, telephone, schools or after school activates they attend, etc. The child should also ask you for authorisation before sharing potentially sensitive pictures on the internet.

Keep the dialogue open

Encourage your kids to be open with you and ask freely about what they see on the internet. If possible try to install the computer in a room where the whole family spends time and where it may be under your supervision, not in his or her bedroom.

Mothers day reminder:

Please note that all invitations must be back by Monday 4th March. We cannot accept any after that date due to catering orders.

Updated information

Will parents/carers please contact the school office to update any changes of addresses , telephone numbers or medical information.

Early Years News:

We would like to welcome Tia-May Chisman and Cally Taylor to our Nursery class this week.

The winners of the weekly book prize for 100% Attendance this week are:

Lottie Easton (Pre Nursery)
Oscar Robinson (Nursery)

Play Day - Wednesday 6th March:

You should all have your personal invitation to our Play Day by now. If you have some time it would be lovely to see you anytime between 10.30 - 11.30am or 1.45 - 2.45pm so you can play alongside your child and see what they are interested in and how they interact with all their friends.

Coats:

Can all children please bring coats to school even if it is a nice day. We never make any child wear a coat if they do not want to, however if they are cold we can spend valuable teaching time looking for something for them to wear.

World Book Day:

Don't forget Thursday 7th March is World Book Day and your child can dress up as their favourite book character. We are having lots of fun activities that day including lots of storytelling and acting!

Thank you to all the reception parents to came along to our cooking session on Wednesday this week. The children were amazing using their knives to chop vegetables and the cakes were yummy too! We would like to say a massive thank you to everyone who came along to support us.

Health & Wellbeing Week 2019

This week, across the whole school, pupils participated in the first ever Health & Wellbeing week and it was a huge success. Over the course of the week, we enjoyed activities such as cooking with Little Sprouts, first aid training with St. John's Ambulance, Move & Learn with MFC, creating healthy packed lunches with Karen Pearson from the Local Authority, creating healthy drinks with smoothie bikes and keeping fit with Zumba sessions.

Throughout the week, our pupils have been amazing – they have eagerly joined in with everything and have developed some new skills. We are extremely proud of everything they have accomplished.

We would like to thank everyone who has given us their time and expertise this week and a special thanks goes out to all of the parents who came into school and cooked with their children. It's been an amazing week and we're over the moon with what we have all accomplished.
